

Subsea is one of the most hostile environments in which to operate critical equipment with pressures increasing by 10bar for every 100m of depth and plans for ultra-deep oil sites only serve to increase the challenges.

